REPORT OF SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

TO THE CITIZENS OF WENDELL:

We herewith present our annual report for the fiscal year ending Feb. 16, 1906.

We have the same old story to tell. We deplore the lack of interest on the part of the parents in the work of the school. It almost seems as if some parents considered they were doing the teacher, the school committee, or someone a great favor by sending their children to school. Few parents visit the school room or know of the work except through the children.

August 7th, Mrs. Effie L. Bowen was elected to fill the vacancy on the school committee caused by the death of Mrs. Mary E. Hoyt.

Our expenses have been heavy owing to the extensive repairs on the Northwest school house. The cost of transportation is quite a little less than last year and seems to have been arranged satisfactorily to all concerned.

It is desirable to unite the South and West schools, as both are quite small, if arrangements can be made for transportation.

The changes in teachers have been many, owing to the low salaries paid.

For the year ending July 31, 1906, Wendell's share of the superintendent's salary will be $394.74. We shall receive from the state, $328.95; $197.37 of this amount is for superintendent's salary and $131.58 for teachers' salaries.

Net expense, $65.79.

Report of the Superintendent of Schools.

TO THE SCHOOL COMMITTEE OF WENDELL :

In June, 1905, four of our teachers resigned. Miss Kate Bachelder, Miss Blanche McKenne and Miss Lovina Lovering secured more desirable positions. Miss Lena Shapleigh entered the Fitchburg Normal School. Miss Celia Bagster of Harvard, Mass., Miss Jennie Horr of Cooleyville, Miss Nettie Rogers of Shutesbury and Miss Sara Goddard of Montague were appointed to the Northeast, Allen, West and Centre schools respectively. Miss Bagster resigned at the Christmas recess to accept a position in the eastern part of the state. Miss Gertrude Fitts of Shutesbury was secured to succeed her.

It has been our good fortune, while making so many changes, to secure teachers who are faithful and earnest, striving to do their best for the schools under their charge. Nevertheless, we deplore the necessity of losing teachers of experience and ability whom we might have retained had we been authorized to offer salaries commensurate with their worth.

A teacher who is enthusiastic, faithful and conscientious, who teaches because her heart is in her work, who is thoroughly interested in her pupils, who realizes the community of interest between school and home, and who claims the parents' co-operation as her rightful prerogative; such a teacher should receive every encouragement.

The law has made education compulsory as well as free. In industrial centers where a large percentage of the population is foreign, it is to be expected that there will not be a well-developed appreciation of free education, but in rural communities where for generations the people have been self-denying and liberal with respect to schools, and where public opinion now demands the best privileges obtainable, there should be no necessity for compulsory school attendance. Yet the necessity exists and because of irregularity of attendance much of our effort is wasted, and those pupils who are allowed to remain away from school fail to receive the full benefit of that for which the public funds are so liberally expended.

It is evident that there is need of a greater degree of respect for the law if our young people are to be trained to good citizenship. It is equally evident that this training must begin in the home with the example of parents. Children must be taught to be self respecting and to respect the rights of those about them. This is a fundamental principle. The school must supplement this training by every means in its power.

Special mention should be made of the excellent record of attendance at the West school. There has not been a case of absence since the opening of school in September, the record for the fall and winter terms being 100 per cent. Much credit is due parents and pupils for the effort made. While it is not possible for every school to make so good a record, it is possible to make a decided gain in the per cent of attendance. The only absences at the South school were occasioned by sickness. If this were the universal rule, it would be the solution of the problem.

In small towns where the schools are multi-graded it is not possible to give time to non-essentials; we must limit our curriculum to such subjects as are essential. Among these drawing calls for more than passing attention. Hand as well as mind should be trained, and with our limited facilities, the only available means is in the line of drawing. While it may not be feasible to employ a supervisor for this department, it would seem advisable to adopt some system whereby we may secure results of some value. I would advise making trial of the "Augsburg System" which can be done at slight expense. The regular teachers can use this successfully without a special teacher.

Wendell is now the only town in this supervision district that has not introduced music as a regular study. A comparatively small amount in addition to the usual appropriation, would enable us to secure a supervisor of music. There can be no question as to the desirability of music in our schools. It will add much to the enjoyment and usefulness of our pupils, while in school and in after life, if able to read music and sing correctly at sight. Quoting from the recent report of a prominent supervisor, "Music, as it is now being taught in the public schools, is a most important study. It employs more faculties and gives the children a broader development than any other study in the school curriculum. It teaches them to hear, see and think quickly and to express accurately what they hear and see; more than this—it teaches them to enjoy good music."

A secondary consideration is the fact that at present pupils who go from us to other schools are at a disadvantage in this line.

In order to introduce music we shall need to lengthen the school year; with but thirty-two weeks we find it difficult to accomplish the work now required. With two, or if possible four additional weeks, we should be able to do more and better work and to give time to the systematic teaching of drawing and music.

There seems to be an impression that our schools are rigidly graded and that a pupil must be prepared in all subjects to enter a higher grade, or repeat the entire work of the year. While this course would simplify our work to a large degree, we deem it better for the pupil to repeat only such studies as he is deficient in. By this plan a pupil may work in two or even three grades, doing in each that of which he is capable. For instance, he may take arithmetic with grade V and all other studies with grade VI, or an eighth grade pupil may find it necessary to repeat seventh grade geography or history. This plan is especially valuable to those children who leave school at the age of fourteen.

Three pupils completed the work of grade IX, and were given diplomas in June: Esther Goddard and Henry Ballou of the Center, and Carl Sandberg of the Allen school. The latter entered the Orange high school.

The Northwest school house was enlarged during the summer vacation to accommodate the increased membership. The subsequent removal of several families decreased the enrollment, yet we find the room none too large for convenience. Needed repairs this year are mainly in the line of painting.

A card system was introduced at the close of the year in June which will enable us to keep a concise and accurate record of each pupil's work during the period of his membership. While the record of the upper classes will necessarily be confined to the remaining years of their course, that of the primary grades will give data from the time of entering grade one through successive grades until the course is completed.

IN CONCLUSION.

It has been said that "Whatever we are doing, we can do better." We do not wish to measure by the standard of other years, and rest content to have attained a fair average of success. It is our desire to measure up to the extent of our ability, making each succeeding year more profitable than the last.

Respectfully submitted,

C. A. STEARNS, Superintendent.

Report of Trustees of Wendell Free Library for 1905.

TO THE CITIZENS OF WENDELL:—

The Library has been under the able management of Mrs. Mary E. White for the past year, and she has given general satisfaction to all the patrons.

We have received and now have on hand forty dollars, interest from the Hinsdale mortgage.

It seems to us that it would be desirable to dispose of the property at Bernardston, and remodel the town hall for a library and ask the town to build a new town hall.

Report of the Librarian of the Wendell Free Library.

TO THE CITIZENS OF WENDELL:—

In the year that has just passed, our library has been quite as prosperous as in former years. The circulation for the past year has not increased as that of last year, not on account of a lack of interest, but because some of our patrons have been away from the town for several months.

We have loaned to the Centre Sunday school, twenty-five books for six months, also the same amount to Farley Library, as in former years.

We have received from the State, a number of different volumes, including statistics of several towns, reports of the legislature and army and navy, also several pamphlets on different subjects.

Our gifts to the Library from other sources have been as follows :

- 1 book from Union Press, Philadelphia, Pa.
- 9 books from Mr. George Kent, Wendell, Mass.
- 1 book from Bureau of Forestry, Washington.
- 1 book from Medford Mercury, Medford, Mass.
- 1 magazine from Mr. Chas. Caldwell, Wendell, Mass.

Having a surplus of magazines for which we did not have room, we sent to the Seamen's Friend Society of Boston a barrel filled with magazines, which was received by them, the superintendent returning thanks for same.

We have had the usual loan of fifty books from the Woman's Educational Association, also two exhibitions of pictures, one of views of Yosemite Valley, the other views entitled "Queer things seen across the sea," both of which were much enjoyed by the townspeople.

Our school teachers have taken fully as much interest as formerly, and we hope it may still continue.

Our library room is small, and an increase in our books, makes us very much crowded. We are in hopes that before long we shall have a larger place provided for our accommodation.

We thank our patrons for the interest shown during this and former years, and hope we may still continue to please them.

Circulation for 1905, 1726. Largest day's circulation, Feb. 25,—50. Smallest day's circulation, March 25,—19.

Respectfully submitted,

MARY E. WHITE, Librarian.
